foreword

Manual's heritage is truly colorful and rich in achievement and in its spirit of adventure and services. In 1909, the school started out as a stepping stone to the four year high school; but since the need was so great, it was established as a full high school where it stands now on Vermont. Here the building-together, the pride, and most of all the unity and hard work were all established and became part of our heritage. Through the years of depression and war and the time of the earthquake, the "It can be done" spirit of the students and faculty has given the present students a pride in their school and the incentive to hold up its traditions and ideals.

All the graduating senior classes will carry with them the rich legacy of Manual's culture. But, also, they will leave behind a little of their own spirit to contribute to the culture, making it rich, colorful and meaningful for the generations to come after them. Every student coming into Manual Arts, contributes his part to the accumulation of values known as traditions, and in turn becomes a heir to the rich legacy of Manual's culture. But what can we say is culture? Culture, in reference to Manual Arts, is a deep, true, and underlying loyalty which is inherent from class to class. It feeds on drama, art, and music. It expresses itself through a devotion to intellectual achievements. It involves an excellence in sports and an unequaled spirit of sportsmanship. Our culture is the manifestation of all by which the past students lived, imbodied in our traditions and spirit.

Even today, five decades later, tradition plays an important part in our activities during our three years here at Manual. We enjoy activities such as Rally Day, Homecoming Day, and the senior hop and prom. These traditions have been perpetuated by former teachers and alumni. Now it is our responsibility to pass our cultural heritage on to future students. If the many traditions and ideals inherited from the past are reflected on the future by us, it will continue on in the highest form. Manual's cultural heritage will stand long after the buildings are gone.

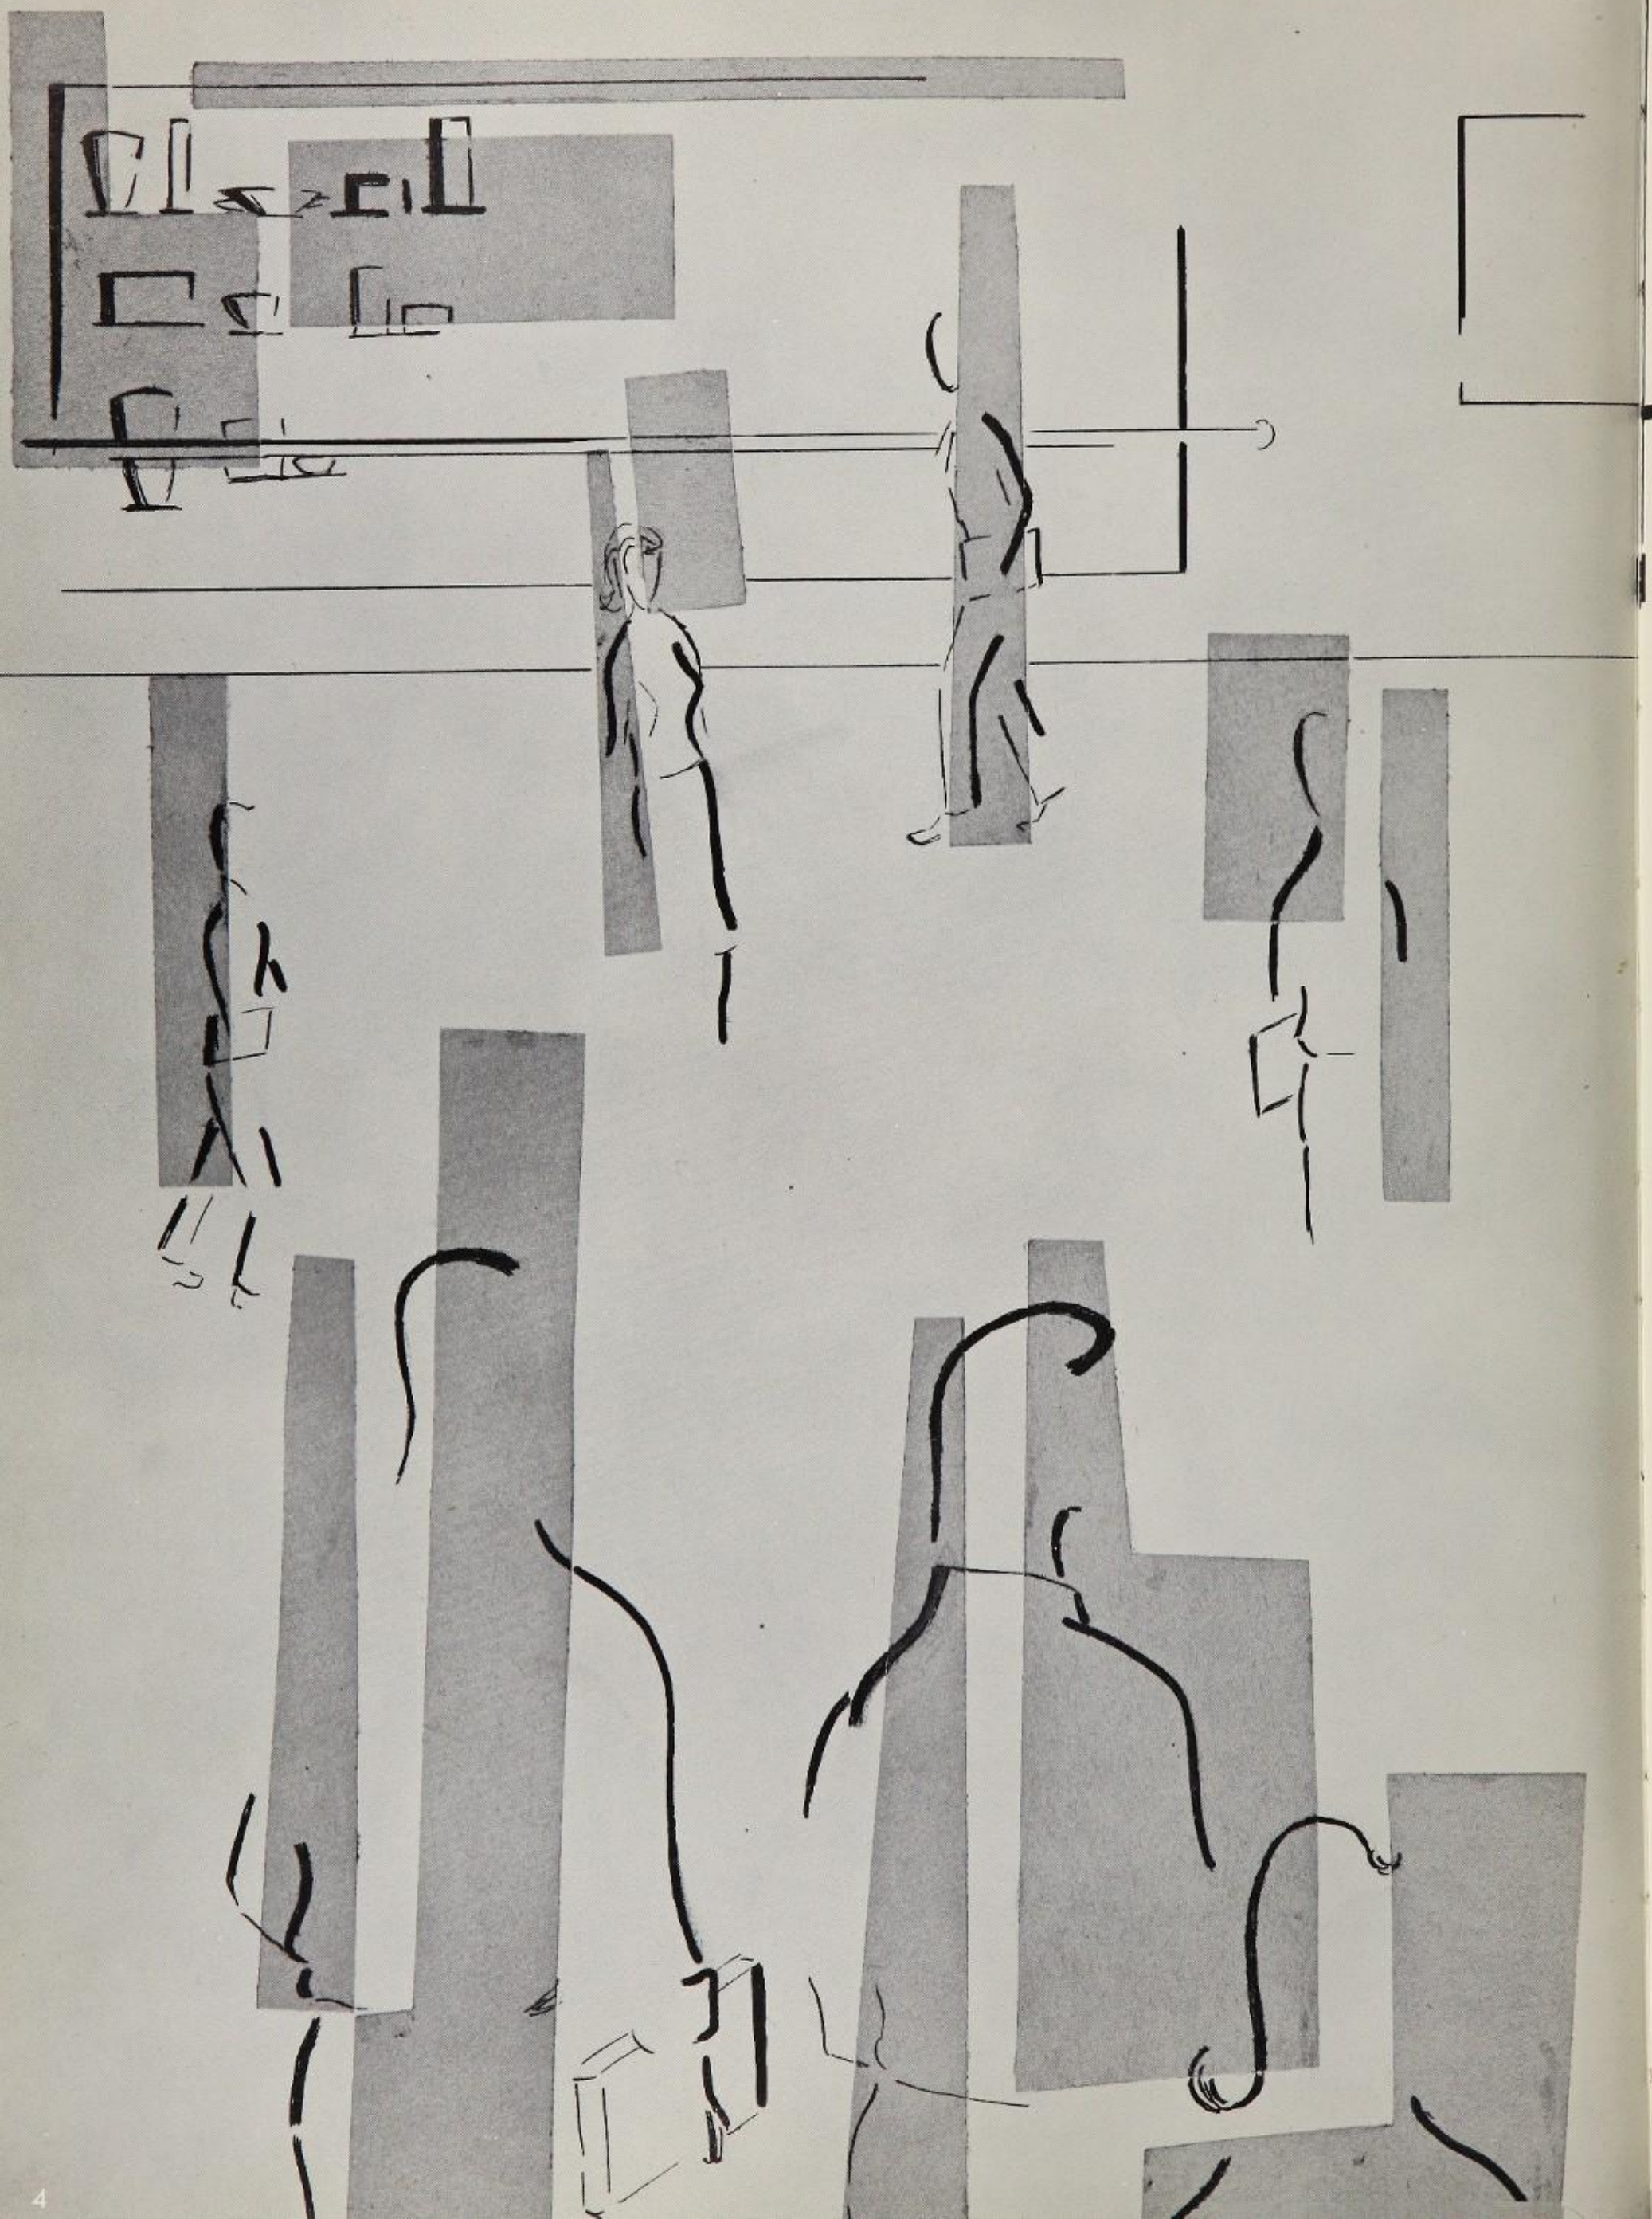
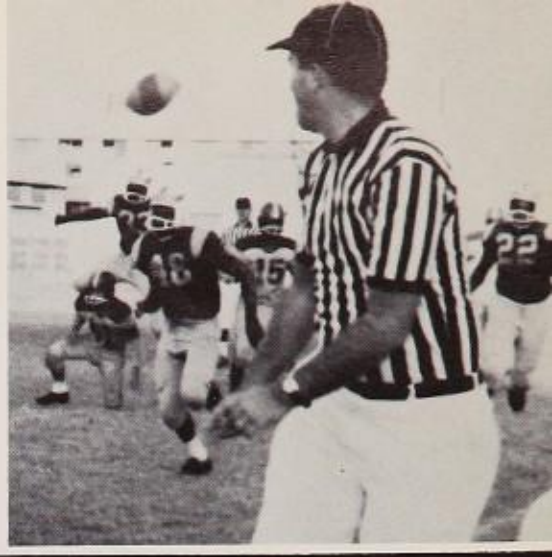
CONTENTS





COACH JAMES BLEWETT

One name above all others personifies our motto, "It can be done." This name rings out in the history of Manual Arts and in the minds and hearts of all the "Annie Artisans" and "Tommy Toilers." Yes, Coach Jim Blewett, has indeed proved that it can be done. To his super coaching, we owe our high athletic achievements which have brought fame to Manual Arts. He has built men out of boys and champions out of athletes in his years as coach.

Athletics has meant everything to our distinguished coach. As a little boy, living just across the street, he always managed to squeeze his way through the spirited crowd to the bleachers where he helped cheer Manual and his famous brothers on to victory. From a student spectator, all out for Manual, Jim Blewett as a teenager skillfully played on the track and gridiron for Manual bringing honor to its teams.

His modesty, fame, and unlimited devotion to Manual Art's students have most assuredly contributed to our culture and school spirit, our excellent sportsmanship and athletic prowess. To Coach Blewett, "Dean of all Coaches," we dedicate this 1961 Artisan.

From time immemorial man has searched for the answers to space, time and life itself. He has discovered many of these precarious questions but many, an untold number, remain unsolved, many such as the answer to the phenomena and the nature of outer space as well as those of this hemisphere, may never be known. Many philosophers have concluded that it is well that man never knows these answers for he would be invading the realm of God and, perhaps, invite his own destruction.

What am I trying to say? I am saying that as we, the Aristocratic Class of W'61, face a new venture into the future, we are amazed by and apprehensive as to what the future holds for us. Will the future contain the answers to some of those questions, or, will remain forever clothed in the garment of relative ignorance?

As we step out into the future and look for these answers, we also look back upon our years in high school, to see just what we have learned and will it be enough to sustain us throughout life. We do know one answer, though, that is that graduation is only one chapter in the story of life. We, therefore, beseech you, who remain at Manual, to work with patience, energy and courage; for soon you will end that chapter in your life and go out into the world to seek other unknown answers.

Mrs. Martha Denny
Sponsor of the Artisan

Tap, Tap, Tap—this is the first sound that greets you as you open the door to room 235 during third period. It is the typewriter busily translating under the nimble fingers of Jo Ann and Barbara, the captions and copy for the Artisan.

Then, across the table you will see Manuel, Robert and Michael, counting words, preparing here, expanding there, to fit the descriptions into the space left by the layout crew.

In another section of the room, members of that same layout team, Pat, Ezra, James, Royce, Willie, Gary and Mike, are working on pages, pictures, drawings, as they set up the dummy. And surrounding Mrs. Denny's desk is the advertising committee, Maria and Barbara, making decisions, plotting forays for ads and assuring unity of theme and treatment for the many advertising activities that go into producing your yearbook, the treasury of happy memories.

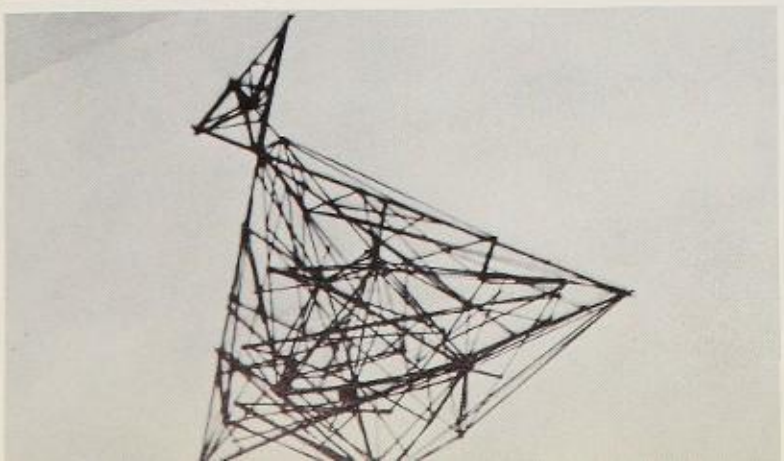
Science Illustration, Mr. Louis La Barbera, Instructor

Costume Design, Mrs. Martha Denny, Instructor



The Art Department plays an important and active part in the school program.

The yearbook is designed and planned in the art department. The Artisan Staff and Mrs. Martha Denny, as sponsor, spend many hours discussing and organizing the annual. The students have the opportunity to see their work reproduced and learn the importance of meeting deadlines, as well as engineering the entire production of a yearbook.

The stage settings and decorations, under the direction of Mr. David Aprato and Mr. Elmer Mather, are also planned by members of the Stage crafts classes.

We offer six Ceramic classes which is quite unusual for a high school program. Mr. Bradley Bennett is the instructor.

A number of students received recognition this past school year. Jose Luis Jimenez received a Saturday morning Scholarship at Chounaird Art Institute, as well as exhibiting a one-man show in the Art Department. At the annual Scholastic Art Exhibit, the work of five students was shown. Delores Tucker and Reginald Morris, each received a gold key, a blue ribbon and a Certificate of Merit. William Randoll, Arthur Holmes and Charles Criner received Certificates of Merit. Arthur Holmes had two works in the exhibit. The magazine cover designed by Delores Tucker and the fashion illustration by Reginald Morris will be included in the National exhibit in New York City.

The Art Club again sponsored the highly successful Spring Outdoor Exhibit for its second annual. The new exhibit area, the girls athletic field fence, proved to be an ingenious idea. The show was acclaimed a success by both the students and the faculty.

Mr. "Pete" Mather, the Drama Coach, did an excellent job of directing the recent play of "The Cat and the Canary." Mr. Mather has directed other plays at Manual, such as: "The Devil and Daniel Webster," "A Christmas Carol," and "Harvey."

Players Company is an organization of students interested in drama. Its purpose is to promote interest in the field of drama and to produce plays for the school. The president is West Delton, who has starred in many of Mr. Mather's school productions.

MISS ELIZABETH MOTTERN, CHAIRMAN, MUSIC DEPARTMENT

The spring term of 1961 was an exceptionally busy one for all the organizations in the music department. Beginning with the Girls' League and A.B.S. Assembly, activities went off with a rush!! This was followed by the Orchestra and Band Festivals, then the night program of Public Schools Week and the combined social of all four music clubs. During the month of April the Aeolian and Lyric clubs, participated in a radio broadcast on K.F.I. In May, the fifty-second Spring Music Festival was presented to Manual Arts in two glee club festivals where our clubs took part. Graduation climaxed the semester, the music furnished by the Band, Aeolian, and Lyric clubs.

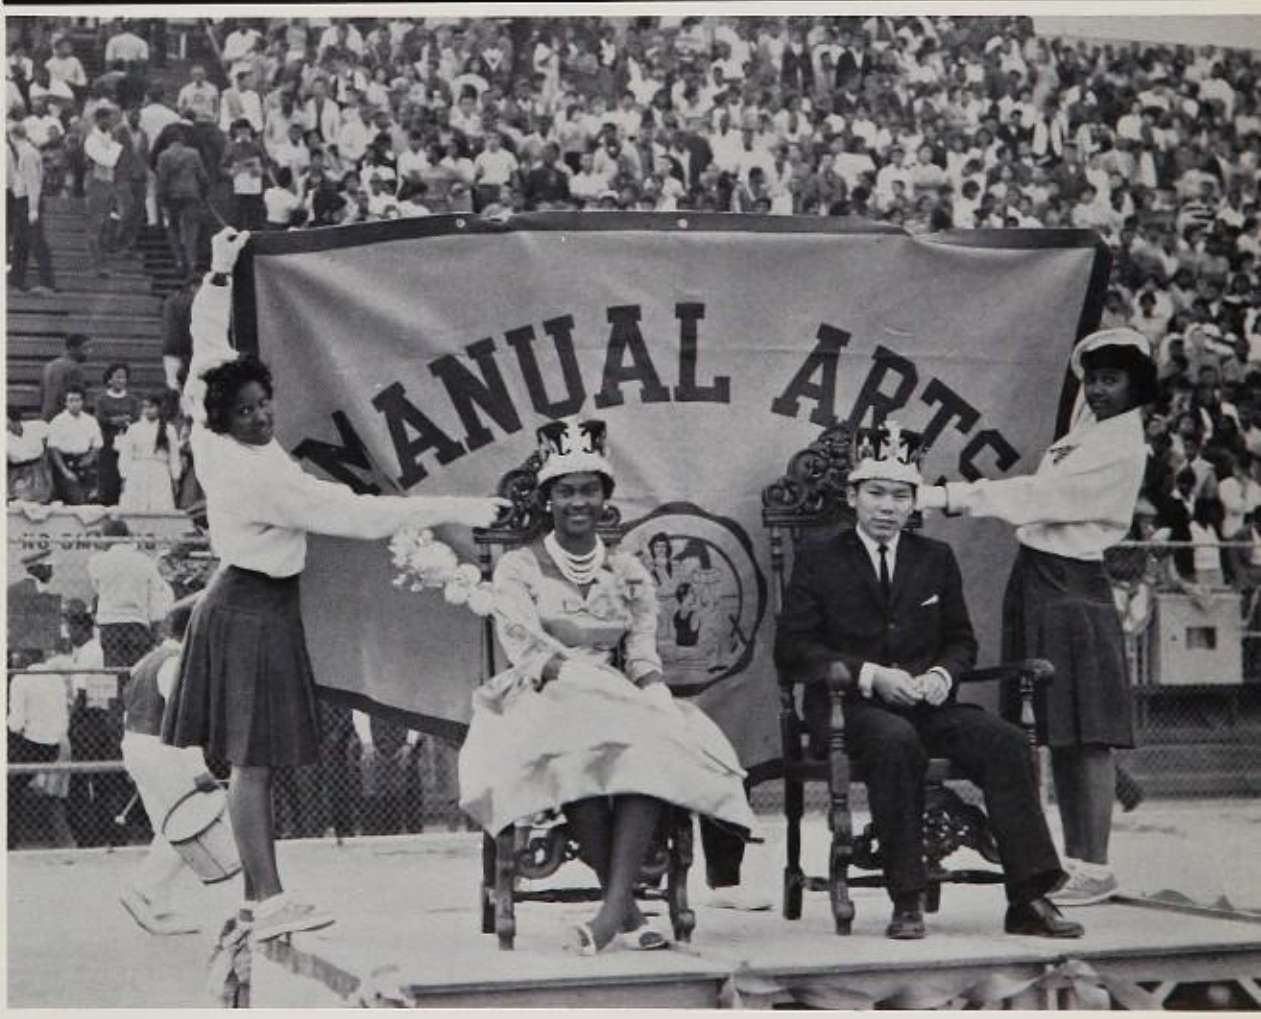
SPORTS

Manual Arts, traditionally, has chosen two students each year, who have given unrecognized service to their school, to be King and Queen on Homecoming Day. This year's Tommy Toiler and Annie Artisan honors went to Paul Tang and Jean Butler, who reigned over the activities of the day.

The Varsity Football team handed them a 14-13 win over Manual's Dixie League rival, Fremont.



Eddie,

varsity football

Manual Art's Winter '61 Varsity football team fell short of gaining a berth in the city playoffs as Los Angeles High put the only smudge on their other-wise perfect record by defeating them 19-7. The Toilers enjoyed one of their best seasons, winding up with a 6-2 record. Their only other loss was a 7-6 loss by San Diego High School, in a non-league encounter. The Toilers ransacked through their Dixie League opponents, as they handed losses to Jefferson (7-6), Washington (30-12), Fremont (14-13), and Dorsey.

First year as Head Coach of the J.V.'s, proved very successful for Coach Rosadilla. Formerly in the Driver Education Dept., he is now a valuable member of the Boys' Physical Education Dept.

Coach Lorenz in his new position as Assistant Bee coach, helped the team tremendously this year.

In his first year as Head Coach of the Bee football team, Coach McNicholas promises us, better and better teams in the future.

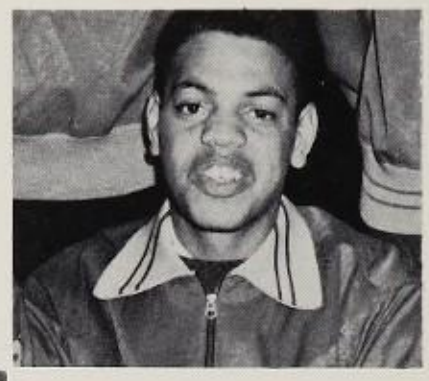
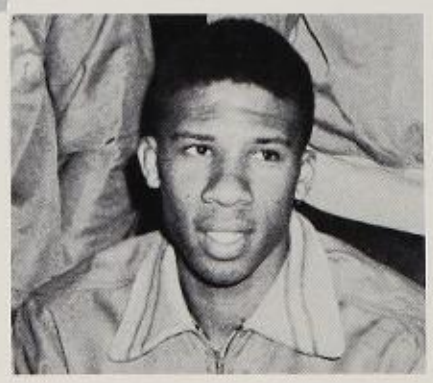
BASKETBALL



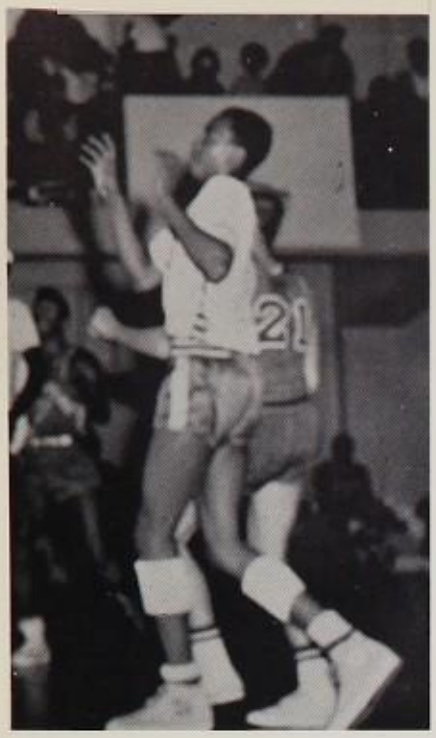
Larry Williams, Manual Arts forward, was chosen all City and all Southern League player of the year. Larry led our team in scoring and was second in Southern League games. He was placed on the all tournament team.

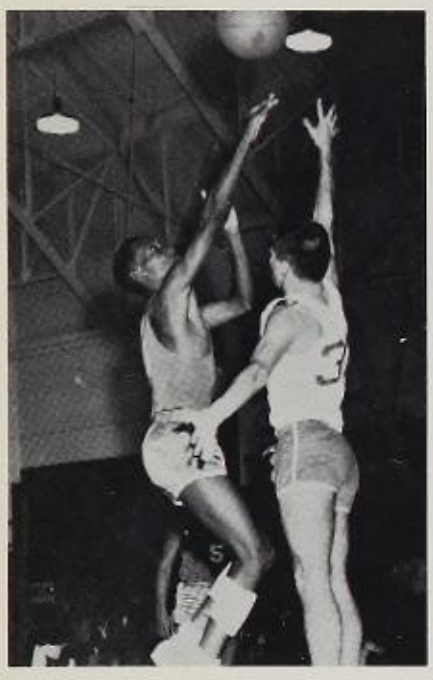
William Allen who was a big man on our team this year was also placed on the first string All - Southern League Team.

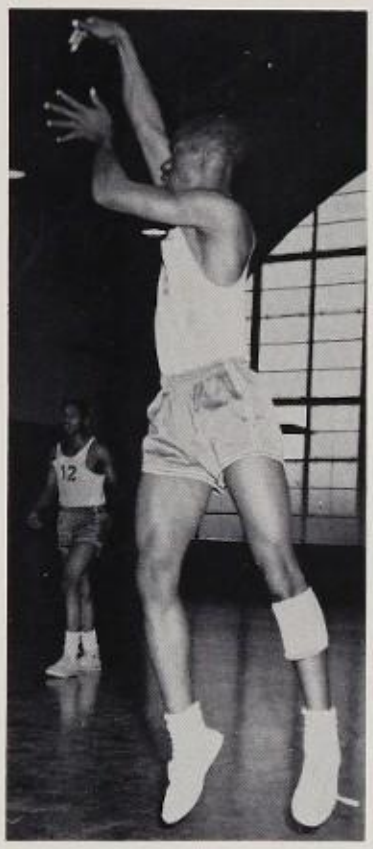
Stanley Swinger, another outstanding player for the Toilers, was placed on the second string All-City Team.



Bobby Green, Manual's guard tor this semester, did an outstanding job in helping Manual take Southern League and second place in City.







Pictures taken from some of Manual's exciting basketball games, showing the players in action as they prepare to take Southern League victory. With such players as Larry Williams, William Allen, Stanley Swinger, and the Green brothers, Bobby and Stephen, Manual can truly say that "It can be done," for these boys have proven it by taking first in Southern League and second in City.

Coach Carlson, the man with the backbone for fifteen years in basketball, has stood by these boys through victory and defeat. Congratulations to you and your players for bringing honor to our name.

Coach James Ryan, who is a happy man because he had a Southern League championship Bee and Cee team this year, can be congratulated for his outstanding job of coaching during his first semester.

The 1961 Manual Arts track team has ended what seemed the most competitive track season in the school's history. Coach Toney, a fine leader simply did not have enough talent during this season to equal some of our great teams in the past. True, that our team was weak in some events, but it produced, with the support of fellow students, a good fight. Some of our outstanding men were: Michael Jones, Michael Brown, William Cook, Paul Parker, Donald Willis, and James Edmonson, the greatest half-miler in Manual's history.

DR. ALBERT E. WILSON

Dr. Albert E. Wilson loved life and youth and learning and blended all three into eighty-nine years of sturdy, middle-of-the-road adherence to the spirit of American democracy. His mother had grown up at home with Denmark and Swedish royalty, while his father had been a handsome vagabond who came to America to dig gold in Mexico. Young Albert lived in a sod house on the Nebraska prairie as a child. After his college years in Lutheran schools, he taught for some time, then went abroad to continue his education at the University of Berlin and through travel. When he returned as Dr. Wilson, it was to Los Angeles High School as a Latin and German instructor.

Exploding school population in Los Angeles gave birth to an emergency "high school branch" for B9's only. Disgruntled teenagers, looking with longing eyes at the two four-year schools, thawed to Doctor's enthusiastic, warm welcome, to the thrill of shared responsibility and to the charm of the little school which he created. A year and a half later, when in September 1910, Manual Arts opened its spacious doors on Vermont Avenue, many of the young people who had gone through Olive Street branch joined the faculty and principal whom they had come to love and admire.

Here was to develop an institution nationally known for the sincerity of its self-government and the quality of its school spirit. Dr. Wilson was to be invited to lecture in summer sessions in Universities all over the country, and civics texts were to describe his dream come to reality in a truly democratic school. Students who went into education work over the years credited Doctor and his faculties with their own inspiration and maintained that it was his stern ideas of right and duty and his faith in youth that lay behind the strength of the school ideals and traditions which grew stronger with the years.

"I kept my eyes open", said Doctor, "and when I saw signs of trouble I gave friendly council. When you showed them where their actions could lead, they generally took care of things themselves."

Upon the opening of the school Doctor had asked, "Where shall the spirit of this school exist?—(in) the minds and hearts of the boys and girls who . . . call her Alma Mater. This is the institution that must be handed to those who come, by those who go, as a holier and ever increasing heritage." And the long chain "reaching down the years" has kept alive that inspiration and brought to us today the spirit of a great man in the Spirit of Manual Arts High School.

Many people assume that to be a success in life one must perform headline-capturing deeds: One must emulate the feats of men like Albert Schweitzer or become an erudite, widely quoted educator or secure election to some top political office. A thinking person, however, will recognize that it is possible for an individual to achieve success without ever capturing the attention of newspaper reporters. In fact, success can result from a lifetime of quiet, unselfish, effective service to others. Consider Miss Florence Sprenger, for example.

Since this is the last year of Miss Sprenger's teaching, it might be well to detail a few of the areas in which she has helped Manual and its students. One of these has been as a classroom teacher. Through the years she has guided thousands of teenagers toward a genuine enjoyment of literature, while helping them to attain the verbal competency necessary for success in the colleges or vocations of their choice. She has been active as a counselor. Many discouraged academic students have found their confidence in their abilities restored and their grades spiraling upward under her constant help and urgent prodding. When the Scholarship Society needed a sponsor, it was she who assumed the responsibility of guiding the group. Recognizing the need for some means of providing stimulus and challenge to fledgling writers, she conceived the idea of a Creative Arts program, which would give these students a taste of the success they might attain in later life. The Creative Arts program, under her leadership, became a tradition at Manual. One of the most valuable services she has performed for our school has been as critic, proofreader, and procurer of talent for the Artisan. Year after year, Artisan Staff members have learned that they can depend upon her for a myriad number of tasks.

Certainly, Miss Sprenger has made an invaluable contribution to Manual. And although her name will probably never be emblazoned in headlines, she has been successful in the truest sense. We wish there were more people like her!

Millie

Dearest Eddie,

Well summer is here again and it's almost a year since I've met you! When you look ahead it seems as if a year is such a long way but looking back it only seems like yesterday... I can't tell you how glad I am to have met you... but I think you know how I feel...

I hope that the years ahead will bring much happiness for you and for us together. I shall always pray for your happiness and success. And I know that you will be a success at whatever you might ~~attempt~~ do.

Always stay as you are ... all the wonderful things that you are to me! Sweet, lovable, darling, Wonderful, that you are to me.

Also, please promise to take care of yourself; be careful; and be good!

Always loving you,

Millie
